

Stan Mauger has both professional experience as a graphic designer and academic interests in the relationships between theory and practice in graphic design. He is a senior lecturer in graphic design at Whitecliffe where he teaches design context and theory subjects. He has a Master of Design Management from Unitec Institute of Technology. His research interests are centred on the varying importance placed on knowledge of social contexts as an informant for design conceptualisation in graphic design in New Zealand.